Success of Geneva Meeting Up to U.S., Molotov Claims

'HELPED CLEAR THE ATMOSPHERE.' Senator Karl Mundt (R), South Dakota (left) confers with President Eisenhower at the White House and told newsmen later that the controversy over alleged "abuse" of witnesses by congressional committees is "simmering down." Mundt, a member of Senator Joseph McCarthy's investigating subcommittee, said the exchange of statements by the President and the Wisconsin senator "helped clear the atmosphere."

Wilson Scoffs At Claim Reds Are 'Coddled'

But Secretary Admits Better Way To Handle Security Risks Needed

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says any "idea the Army is coddling Communists is just damn tommyrot" but that he is looking for better ways to handle security risk cases in the future.

Wilson was questioned yesterday at a news conference about the case of Maj. Irving Peress, Army dentist who invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about possible subversive connections. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), investigating the case, has sharply criticized the Army.

McCarthy Replies

Wilson's comment stirred McCarthy, who only a few minutes before had vowed he was "all through" issuing statements, to retort that "no one has ever claimed that the Army as such is coddling Communists." But, McCarthy insisted, testimony had established that "certain individuals in the Army have been protecting, promoting, covering up and honorably discharging known Communists." The senator said he was sure the secretary "will not disagree with that."

Because McCarthy's was the final statement of the day, there was no immediate indication whether Wilson did or did not agree.

Seeking Details

But in his news conference, devoted this week to the sole subject of communism, he did say:

1. Using a "task force" from his office, he is setting out to determine the "who and why" element in the Army's sudden issuance of an honorable discharge for Peress months after Peress was said to have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about communism. Peress was inducted and commissioned under the doctors' draft law.

"I doubt he should ever have been made an officer," was Wilson's reply to a question whether he thought Peress should have been given an honorable discharge.

2. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was "technically responsible, because he's the boss," for the handling of the Peress case—but "I wouldn't think" Stevens would resign because of the matter. Wilson guessed Peress "could have been gotten out quicker by a little bit different administrative procedure."

3. His task force is covering "the whole incident, from Peress right through, so we'll know the facts, so we can handle things better in the future . . . This is sort of a new kind of a problem: you wouldn't want a man to be able to dodge the draft just because he says he is a Communist."

Charges U.S. Prepares for Another War

Berlin Talks Reviewed By Foreign Minister In Report to Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov said today results of the Berlin conference can be measured only by what happens when the Big Four meet April 26 with Communist China and other nations at Geneva to discuss peace in Asia.

In a 7,500-word report on the Berlin talks, which ended 15 days ago, Molotov reiterated Soviet charges that Western defense preparations point to a third world war. He blamed the United States, Britain and France for East-West disagreements that remained unsolved.

Criticizes Dulles

The statement, played up in all Moscow newspapers and broadcast by the Moscow radio, criticized U.S. Secretary of State Dulles for making speeches about the conference "representing himself as a zealous champion of the freedom of peoples and the champion of free elections."

"Certain defenders of freedom like such freedom as gives exploiters and militarists a free hand and a life of plenty, while the laboring people live under the constant shadow of war and fresh annihilation," Molotov said.

He said the Berlin conference was worthwhile because it aired various world questions and cleared the road to the Geneva parley—"of definite international significance"—on Korea and Indochina.

Depends on U. S.

Chances of settling the seven-year-old Indochina war at Geneva, he said, depend on "the position of the French government and also on the position of the U.S.A., which is increasingly interfering in the affairs of Indochina."

"The main thing, however," he added, "will depend on recognition by all the conference participants of the need to settle the question of peace there, not through continuing a hopeless (French Union-Vietminh) war, but through an agreement conforming to the principles of freedom and the national independence of the peoples."

The other big issue is a Korean peace treaty.

Mansfielder Weeps

Sternbaum Freed; Jury Out 12 Hours

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Max Sternbaum, found innocent of a first degree murder charge, went home to his three sons last night after three months in jail.

A jury of 10 men, most of them businessmen, and 2 housewives acquitted him at 11:45 p.m. in the Dec. 4, 1952 slaying of his wife, Leah, 31. The jury had deliberated most of the day, after nearly four weeks of hearing testimony in the case.

Mrs. Sternbaum, her body burned and beaten about the head, was found in the burned-out Sternbaum Supermarket office here.

The prosecution tried to prove he clubbed his 31-year-old wife, Leah, to death with a wrench Dec. 4, 1952. It tried to prove he did it for the love of another woman.

Tension was on the face of the 35-year-old grocery chain treasurer as Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch read the verdict. He trembled and sobbed quietly.

He waved away a court attache who asked if he wanted to return to the jail to pick up his belongings and left for home as soon as he could.

It was a day of mixed emotions for the stocky, black-haired Mansfield man. About nine hours before he was pronounced a free man he attended the burial of his father under police guard.

The jury got his case at 9:50 a.m. It recessed for dinner about 5:30 p.m. and resumed deliberation about 8.

It had the choice of these verdicts: Innocent, guilty of first degree murder with or without a recommendation of mercy or guilty of second degree murder.

Conviction of first degree murder without a recommendation of mercy would have made mandatory a sentence of death in the electric chair.

Prosecutor Theodore Lutz tried to show Sternbaum beat his wife in the building housing his supermarket offices and then burned the building to cover the crime.

Sternbaum's story, presented by Atty. Paul Herbert, was that burglars attacked him and his wife after she stopped by to drive him home late at night and they burned the building.

Prosecutor Lutz said he will file a motion today nullifying an arson charge pending against Sternbaum in the same case.

City Paralyzed

Cleveland Reeling Under Fifth Day of Snowstorm

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland, reeling from five straight days of snow and wind, bent its back again today and hoped for clearing skies and a mild thaw.

Buses got "lost" or ran hours behind schedule in the swirling whiteness, yesterday, schools shut their doors, industry ground toward a halt, stores closed two hours early, hotels were jammed and hundreds of drivers were marooned for hours in stalled cars.

More Deaths Recorded

Since Sunday, 20.8 inches of snow have fallen on this Lake Erie city and for the past three days a strong west wind off the lake has drifted snow over roads, steadily wearing down highway crews.

Throughout the state, at least 21 deaths are attributed to the storm.

Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze urged Cleveland citizens to avoid driving downtown unless on an emergency occupation. He also ordered police to check an estimated 2,000 stalled cars for marooned or helpless drivers.

Weathermen pointed out the total snow drop was just 1.3 inches less than the 22.1 that fell Nov. 23-28, 1950, in the "big one." Some weather officials said they considered this storm worse because of the wind.

Wind Carries Snow

Cleveland's waterfront juts out northeastward from the center of the city, causing the wind to swirl and pick up fallen snow which was redeposited on the east side. The forecaster at Cleveland Airport said he was sure more of the east side snow yesterday had been blown there than had fallen. But he admitted that certainly didn't help residents.

The worst traffic jam was on Memorial Shoreway N. E.—along the lake—where scores of truck and car drivers spent more than 11 hours without food yesterday. Cars and trucks stalled where the shoreway grows narrower — and eventually nothing moved on some sections.

Spends 12 Hours on Buses

Miss Martha Palmer, 28, told of spending 12 hours on two buses trying to get downtown from suburban Euclid. The last bus got hung up on the shoreway.

Buses all over the city ran hours late and service to Cleveland Heights was out completely.

Howard G. Cumler, superintendent of traffic for the Cleveland Transit System, blamed trucks for most of the trouble. Trucks stalling on the streets or cars abandoned in drifts caused lines of traffic to stop.

All Schools Now Open

All city and county schools were open today after bad weather forced several county schools to close from Monday until Thursday.

In Crawford County, only one rural school—Mt. Zion—was open today. However, city schools were in session.

Mobile Rescue Team Called Out on Test Alert

Marion's mobile rescue team was called out in a surprise practice session Thursday night. Alerted at 9 p.m., members of the team went to their civil defense rescue truck and were at their destination, the police station, at 9:20 p.m. William Luce, captain of the team, reported that seven of the 10 members of the team reported for duty. It was the second such drill in two weeks for the team members. The team is a part of the Mobile Support Group of the state Civil Dfense Corps.

Flexible Price Support Under Fire in Senate

Administration Farm Proposals Face Rough Going During Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Farm officials of the Eisenhower administration face another barrage of questions today by senators opposed to their plan to make agricultural price supports less rigid.

But they got some tokens of support, too, notably from Chairman Aiken (R-Vt) of the Senate Agriculture Committee, who lauded Secretary of Agriculture Benson as an "honest man" and said his numerous congressional critics "are talking merely for political purposes and nothing else."

Aiken offered in support of his views voluminous charts which, he said, proved that 22 years of assorted farm programs had cost less than 500 million dollars a year.

"In my opinion it has been a good investment," he added.

Critical questions of senators about the chance of farm prices and income dropping lower under the new program took up most of a lengthy session of the committee yesterday.

True D. Morse, under secretary of agriculture, and Karl Loos, department solicitor, were called back today to explain a lengthy bill introduced by Aiken.

It covers main points of the Eisenhower program but Aiken said, "It is not an administration bill."

Key point of the Eisenhower proposal is to allow 90 per cent farm supports to expire at the end of this year, in favor of flexible price props at 75 to 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is a computed price aimed at giving a farm product a fair purchasing power in terms of things a farmer buys.

Sen. Young (R-ND) said in an interview that the first day's testimony and questions showed "they are a lot farther away from congressional acceptance than before."

He said he is convinced the flexible program would permit wheat prices "to drop as much as 33 cents a bushel below present average supports of about $2.20."

Inter-American Delegates Told Of Red Menace

Dulles Outlines U.S. Policy at Caracas in Hard-Hitting Address

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Delegates to the Inter-American Conference buckled down to the grind of committee work today in an atmosphere of optimism and unity following Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' statement of U.S. hemisphere policy.

The committees are studying political-legal matters, economic affairs, social problems and cultural topics.

Delegates from Guatemala, Argentina, Ecuador, Mexico and Nicaragua were listed to give policy statements at today's plenary session preceding committee meetings. The statement from Guillermo Toriello was awaited with particular interest since his government has been charged, particularly in the United States, with being much influenced by the Communists.

Dulles did not mention Guatemala specifically in his policy address yesterday, but he hit hard at the theme that America must realize it is not immune from the Red menace. Not a single country, he declared, has been free from Communist penetration and the American republics must make clear their position to it.

Most Latin-American delegates expressed satisfaction with what they termed the frankness and earnestness of Dulles' speech, although many wished he had gone further into their specific economic problems.

John Key Dies; Was a Former Congressman

First Elected in 1912, Served Three Terms In Old 13th District

John A. Key, 82, of 521 E. Church St., former U.S. Congressman from the old 13th District and leader in Democratic politics in Marion County, died at 8 p.m. Thursday in City Hospital. He was ill two weeks, suffering from a heart ailment.

Born Dec. 30, 1871, in Marion, he was a son of George and Margaret Davidson Key, natives of Scotland. Starting out as a mail carrier, he became interested in politics and was elected as Marion County recorder in which office he served two terms.

His introduction to national politics came about when a Democratic candidate for congressman from Fremont, Carl Anderson, visited Marion. Looking for a prominent Democrat to manage his campaign, Anderson heard of the recorder and visited his office. After assisting the candidate with

Democrats See Political Gains In GOP's Woes

Big Party Rally Gets Under Way in Florida; Johnson Is Keynoter

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Democrats gathering here for a unity-cementing rally claimed today that the Eisenhower - McCarthy split among Republicans has left them as the nation's only "party of responsibility."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, sounded the keynote of this Southeastern party conference when he said in an interview that "we are giving to the country what the Republicans promised—unity."

"We will go to the people next November on our record of performance and our record as the party of responsibility," he said.

Johnson, one of the speakers at a $100-a-plate dinner here Saturday night when former Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois will give the principal address, declined to comment on the most recent dispute between President Eisenhower and Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis), except to say "that's a Republican problem."

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, who flew in from Washington last night, said he has advocated a single, joint Senate-House investigating committee.

Officials in the executive department must, with several congressional investigations operating, "spend too much time on the Hill" testifying before committees seeking the same answers, Russell said.

Three Youths Confess Theft At Gas Station

Three teen-age Marion boys were arrested by Marion police today and charged with the burglary Sunday night of Bruno's Shell Service at the corner of S. Prospect and W. Church St.

Police Chief Thomas Coon said the three youths, 12, 15, and 16 years old, have been placed in the Marion County detention home pending filing of burglary charges against them in Marion County Juvenile Court.

All three confessed to the burglary, Chief Coon said. They are still being questioned in an effort to determine whether they have been involved in any other recent burglaries.

The burglary of the service station occurred sometime Sunday night and was reported to police early Monday morning by Robert Bruno, owner and operator. Entrance was gained by breaking out a window at the side of the building.

A total of about $41 and some cigarets were taken. Police recovered some drill bits and a money sack not previously reported stolen, along with $7 of the money.

Godfrey Loses Pilot's License For Six Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board decided today to suspend Arthur Godfrey's pilot certificate for six months, effective March 16, as a penalty for careless flying at Teterboro, N. J., Airport Jan. 7.

The action came in the form of a recommended decision by CAB Safety Examiner Albert H. Ruppar. Godfrey has the right of appeal, but a recommended decision by a safety examiner customarily is adopted by the board as its own decision.

The recommended penalty was surprisingly severe in view of the fact that the Civil Aeronautics Administration had asked for a suspension of "at least 30 days."

Yank Pitcher Blackwell Quitting, Cites Sore Arm

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Elwell Blackwell, veteran right handed pitcher with the New York Yankees, quit baseball today because of a sore arm.

The former National League star with the Cincinnati Reds dropped out in mid-season last year because of arm trouble but was attempting a comeback this spring.

Puerto Rican Terrorists Face Indictments Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The four Puerto Rican Nationalists accused of wounding five congressmen in Monday's wild shooting spree face a court today.

Each has an opportunity to answer to a 10-count indictment, but their formal arraignment may be postponed if they have not arranged for attorneys to represent them.

Study Action on Terrorists

Amid indications of official concern yesterday that President Eisenhower and others may have been marked for terrorists' attacks, Atty. Gen. Brownell disclosed the Justice Department is studying possible ways to proceed against members of the small, financial Puerto Rican Nationalist party.

Brownell told a news conference he could not go into details "because of the critical nature of the situation, with indictments pending against those arrested last Monday."

Police Offer Suggestions

Washington police made two recommendations to Congress in a report yesterday:

1. That the special Capitol police force, members of which are now appointed by legislators as part of their patronage, be replaced by a professional body.

2. That a bulletproof glass barrier be installed around the public galleries.

Condition of the most seriously wounded congressman, Rep. Alvin M. Bentley (R-Mich), was reported unchanged—serious but no longer critical.

The four Puerto Ricans are charged with assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon on the five representatives felled.

The defendants are Lolita Lebron, 34; Rafael Cancel Miranda, 25; Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29, and Irving Flores Rodriguez, 28, all of New York City.

Strike Ties Up New York Port

Passengers on Liners Have To Tote Luggage

NEW YORK (AP)—Wildcat strikers tied up New York's sprawling port today, defying a Federal Court order in a battle for union control of the waterfront.

Resentful members of the Independent International Longshoremen's Assn. refused to work the luxury liner and other piers in Manhattan and stayed off the job at piers in Brooklyn and Staten Island.

Waterfront police reported the rival AFL union of the same name also refused to report to work at struck piers, apparently to avoid any brawling.

The two unions are fighting for control of the dock workers.

The striking ILA longshoremen said they acted because of a Federal Court restraining order obtained against them yesterday by Board.

Passengers boarding the Queen Elizabeth were forced to carry their own luggage. The Cunard Line mustered about 100 office workers to help out.

Speeding Auto Crashes Near Youngstown, 3 Die

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Three Youngstown persons were killed last night when the car in which they were riding crashed at the intersection of Ohio 18 and 45.

The State Highway Patrol, reporting excessive speed as the cause of the mishap, identified the dead as:

The driver, Anthony Alexander, 31; Betty Catruzzla, 19, and Margie Ripple, 20.

All suffered broken necks and fractured skulls, the patrol said.

20 Americans Missing on C-47 Lost in Europe

NICE, France (AP) — A broad search was pressed over the Ligurian Sea and the French Alps today for a U. S. Air Force C47, missing with 20 men on a flight from Rome to Bitburg, Germany.

A midmorning report that the craft had been spotted in the mountains north of Nice proved false. Police said the report came from authorities in the village of St. Etienne de Tinee, 40 miles north of Nice.

But several residents of the region told of hearing the noise of a big plane yesterday afternoon and French ski troops based in the area moved out in patrols of 20 to 30 men each to look for clues.

A three-nation air-sea search was under way for the plane, missing since shortly after noon yesterday with 20 Americans aboard. Its last radio report—"all normal"—was sent as the plane was over Corsica, 75 miles after it had taken off from Rome's Ciampino Airport.

Goldberg Closes Season

Audience of 900 Enjoys Noted Violinist's Concert

By EDNA S. DUTTON

The 1953-54 season of the Marion Community Concert Association closed on a happy note Thursday night with a concert by Szymon Goldberg, violinist.

The versatile genius of the strings gave the audience of some 900 persons the music of Beethoven, Kreisler, Mozart and other favorite composers as they like it. The program lasted about one and one-half hours but to the enraptured audience it was not nearly that long. That they were completely captivated by the artist's sympathetic and brilliant performance was evidenced by the prolonged applause that followed each number, and their reluctance to leave the auditorium after he returned for encores at the close of the program.

A KREISLER composition, "Praeludium and Allegro," opened the program and in this Goldberg gave the audience a taste of what was to follow. A Kreisler arrangement of Gluck's Melodie was his second choice and to climax the first half of the program he played the adagio sostenuto, presto, andante con variazioni and finale of the Beethoven "Sonata No. 9 in A Major," opus 47.

The artist's playing of the lovely Chausson composition, "Poeme," will long be remembered. Opening with the piano it moved through moments of restlessness and exaltation to fade into trills of birds in the forest in the hush of dusk

COMPLETING the last half of the program were "Rondo in G," a merry number by Mozart and arranged by Kreisler, and two compositions by Brahms - Joachim, "Hungarian Dance in F Major," and "Hungarian Dance in A Minor."

Sharing the appreciation of the audience was the artist's accompanist, Brooks Smith, who left nothing to be desired in his performance at the piano.

They returned to the stage to play two encores, both Kreisler compositions.

The season's final concert came in the first week of the concert association's membership campaign for the coming season. The 1953-54 series brought outstanding artists on the local scene and the Goldberg concert last night left those who heard him hoping for more of the same.

Rhodes Using School As Political Fodder, Welfare Head Claims

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Allen Daniel, 29-year-old Ohio State University graduate student from Norfolk, Va., is to be arraigned today on a charge of assaulting a 15-year-old inmate of the Girls' Industrial School.

Daniel, married and the father of one child, was employed as a cottage parent at the school near Delaware until his suspension early this week.

Held in Delaware

Sheriff Earl Fravel lodged the social administration student in Delaware County jail after his arrest yesterday.

Prosecutor Clyde Lewis filed the charge against Daniel Wednesday on information supplied by State Auditor James A Rhodes who visited the school last weekend.

Mrs. Evelyn Ethell, school superintendent, said Daniel was under investigation before Rhodes charges of "inhuman treatment" at the school were made.

Robison Blasts 'Politics'

Rhodes said he found 5 girls between 13 and 16 years old locked in solitary correction cells. He said most of them were being punished for having run away from the unfenced school.

State Welfare Director Henry J. Robison said Rhodes was using the school as political fodder. Rhodes is the Republican candidate for governor.

Molotov

Joseph Stalin's death, the Soviet foreign minister also took occasion to say in his statement:

1. U.S. claims to world leadership "are naturally groundless," American bases abroad are directed against the Soviet Union and the American position-of-strength policy means preparing for another war

2. The fate of the 14-nation North Atlantic Treaty will be no better than the fate of "the well known Anti-Comintern pact concluded in 1937 by Hitler Germany, militarist Japan and Fascist Italy."

3. The projected European Defense Community, which would line up West German troops with those of five other West European nations, blocks German unity, harbors "the revival of German militarism" and "to follow this path means to embark on preparation of another war in Europe, which leads to a third world war."

Rips U. S. Senators

Molotov took a crack at the views of what he called "some senators" in Washington toward Communist China, which the United States does not recognize diplomatically.

"They are inexorably drawn to the past and would like the great Chinese people to remain in their old status of a semicolonial nation, ruthlessly exploited by foreign capital," he charged.

"These times are gone forever."

REV. J. B. HOLLOWAY
Pastor of Trinity Baptist Church

"I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly."—John 10:10.

Around the world today multitudes of Christians are praying to a common Lord for a common purpose that the abundant life might be given to all people of all nations.

God, the Eternal Father, who supplies our every physical need, foresaw that man could not live by bread alone. Therefore, in His wise providence, He sent His only begotten Son into the world to provide spiritual nourishment for the souls of men.

While there are millions of people in the world who are starving for food in spite of the abundance which is going to waste for the lack of adequate distribution, so there are millions who are perishing for spiritual food because we who have the abundant life have failed to share with them our Christ, the true Bread of Life, whose primary purpose in coming to earth was that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly.

PRAYER: Dear Father, forgive us, who have the good things of life so freely bestowed upon us, for our negligence in sharing them with the less fortunate about us Make us to become channels through whom the abundant life may become a reality to others. In Jesus' name. Amen.

St. Mary Clips Northwestern in First Tourney Test

Irish Win 47-39 To Take Position in Quarter-Finals

By JOHN SHORT

A cautious St. Mary quintet passed its first Central District tournament hurdle last night at Capital University with an unimpressive 47-39 verdict over a weak Northwestern team.

The win advanced the Irish into the quarter-finals of the Central District's upper bracket. They will meet the winner of tonight's battle between Prospect, Marion County co-champions, and Williamsport in the opening game Monday at 7 p.m.

Last night's game saw the Irish overcome their plague of the last three weeks. Very few times did the St. Mary team lose the ball on turnovers and managed to control play for nearly two-thirds of the time.

Irish Control Game

Actually it was the team's ability to control the ball which accounted largely for the win. The Irish quintet flashed some of its smoothest passing of the season throughout the contest.

After jumping into an early lead the Irish ignored chances at the basket and finished the game with only 60 attempts from the field. The losers were unable to dent the defense thrown up out front by the St. Mary squad and were forced to rely mainly on long set shots from outside. Most of these missed the target and Larry Ryan, Roger Michell and Mike Anderson gave St. Mary control of the rebounds through the game.

St. Mary trailed only twice in the game. George Steele opened the scoring for the losers when he scored on a drive-in after 46 seconds. Ryan dropped in a free throw and Micheli batted in a rebound to shove St. Mary ahead but Hayes Crum connected on a jump shot for a 4-3 Northwestern edge before Butch Mrechant scored on a jump shot with three minutes remaining in the period. Fouled in his shot, Butch added a free throw and Ryan dunked in another foul shot to push the Irish out of reach of the Union County team.

At the end of the quarter, the losers managed to cling to the leaders' heels 11-9 and when Bill Nibert scored from the charity line at the start of the second period, they trailed only 11-10. Before Northwestern could score again the Irish had raced to a 16-10 lead and by the halftime intermission had jumped to a comfortable 30-14 edge. Northwestern was held to five points in the second quarter, all coming on free throws.

Northwestern's attack picked up briefly in the third stanza when Coach Ray Robbins inserted three newcomers into the action. The losers outscored St. Mary 14-10 in that period to cut the deficit to eight points before Anderson, Ryan and Johnny Messenger scored to boost St. Mary back into a 40-28 lead as the quarter ended.

Stall Used

At the start of the final frame, the Irish began trading points for time. They ignored many chances to work the ball past the Northwestern defenders to eat up the clock with their passing. Micheli and Ryan bottled up the Northwestern aces, Crum and Harold Herd, the top rebounder. Several times the two had their attempts at the goal batted into their face by the two Irish defenders.

Herd left the game with nearly five minutes to play with his fifth personal and Crum followed after he had cut the Irish lead to 43-37 with two minutes to go. St. Mary controlled the ball the rest of the way and Micheli dropped in a pair of insurance tallies to boost the count to 47-37 with 22 seconds left.

Merchant led the Irish scoring with 13 points while Micheli hit for 12. Anderson and Ryan each notched seven. Jerry Ballenger scored five and Messenger added the other three. Crum topped the losers' attack with 18 points, scoring mostly on hooks from inside the foul line. Steele dropped in 13 with a two-handed shot similiar to that used by Ohio State's Robin Freeman.

In their 60 attempts at the basket, the Irish connected 16 times for a shooting average of slightly under 27 per cent. From the foul marker they potted 15 of 24. The losers hit for 15 field goals but connected only 9 of 31 times on their charity throws.

During the last half, St. Mary tried only 25 shots.

In the opener last night, Newark St. Francis' Green Wave belted Howard 75-52. The losers spurted into an early 5-0 lead before St. Francis stalled their attack with a full court press.

Bob Franks and Frank Murphy each netted 23 points for the Newark entry while Howard was topped by Jim Cline's 16 points.

LaRue Home Team Belts Harpster Quintet 82-46

The LaRue home team belted Harpster 82-46 last night at LaRue to avenge an early-season loss to the visitors. The losers managed to stay in the game for only the first quarter when they fell behind 15-11.

The LaRue cagers pulled out front 29-17 in the second period and built their lead to 50-32 at the start of the final stanza. The winners pumped in 32 points during the final quarter while holding the losers to 14.

Dan Miller scored 15 to top the winners' attack while Harold Brocklesby added 14 and Ted Dennison notched 12. High man for the Harpster squad was Merrill Lust with 12.

Prospect Sets Opener Tonight In Tournament

Prospect, lone remaining entrant from Marion County's recent cage tournament, steps into action in the Central District Class B Tournament at Capital tonight.

Coach Bob Kelly's Bulldogs, who finished as co-champs of the past county league and were runners-up in the county tourney, will take on Williamsport, defending champion, in the opening game at 7 p.m. Both quintets take 17-4 marks into the battle.

Williamsport nailed down the Pickaway County League title during regular season play but was upset in the county tournament. The squad came back in tourney play to third place by winning the final game in the consolation bracket.

Mt. Gilead and Chesterville are slated for action Saturday night at Capital. Mt. Gilead, 17-3, which survived its opening test with Midway, will take on Newark St. Francis, 20-3, one of the tourney favorites, in the second game after Chesterville, 21-2, which drew a first round bye, takes on Bremen, 14-6.

The second tilt at 8:30 p.m. pits Lancaster St. Mary, 15-7, against Fredericktown, 17-5.

Meanwhile at Otterbein, Delaware County's Olentagy, 20-4, will meet Gahanna, Franklin County tournament champion, at 7 p.m., and Liberty Union, Fairfield County tournament champ with a 14-6 mark, will take the floor against Union County's Magnetic Springs, 11-10, in the night cap at 8:30 p.m.

NAIA Tournament Ponders Ways of Capturing Francis

KANSAS CITY (AP)—How would you like to tell Coach Newt Oliver he can't bring his 50-point a game Bevo Francis and the Rio Grande, Ohio, basketball team to your national tournament?

The man who might have to do it despite Bevo's obvious gate attraction is Al Duer, major domo of the National Assn. of Intercollegiate basketball tournament which starts a week-long run in Municipal Auditorium Monday with a field of 32 teams.

Duer had a ready but mournful answer for the question:

"I don't even like to think about it."

But he has to think about it and come up with an answer today.

Here's the reason for his headache:

All 32 teams, with one exception, have been or will be chosen by district tournaments. The one exception is in Ohio where a big snowstorm forced cancellation of a playoff among Rio Grande, Findlay, John Carroll and Wilberforce.

"That one exception would have to involve the nation's most fabulous basketball pointmaker," Moaned Duer. "He has a 50-point average over 2 years of play and scored an unbelievable 116 in 1 game. He would be a big asset but what are we to do about those other three? They all have good records and maybe would have knocked off Bevo and Rio Grande."

Duer, executive director of the NAIA, said he and the members of the executive committee will have the answer sometime today. There is a possibility they may name two Ohio teams to come to Kansas City.

"Here's what we have on our hands," said Duer. "Rio Grande finished with an 18-4 record, losing to Villanova, North Carolina State, Adelphi and Salem. But they knocked off Findlay, Wake Forest and Creighton.

"John Carroll played probably the toughest schedule but they came out with 15-10 and beat Seton Hall and St. Bonaventure.

"Findlay had an 18-6 record including victories over Indiana State, a former NAIA champion. They split two with Wilberforce.

"And Wilberforce is no slouch. They had a 16-8 mark."

Tony Drago, assistant basketball coach at Duke, was captured by the Germans in the Battle of the Bulge and was a prisoner of war for six months.

Amanda Wins 65-52

Morral Drops Opening Start In District Tournament Play

Morral was eliminated from the Central District Class B Basketball Tournament picture lastnight in Otterbein gym at Westerville by an Amanda crew which rallied in the closing minutes to clinch a 65-52 victory.

Coach Vern Hensel's Wildcats, making their first tourney start, led for most of the first half — leading by nine points at one time—before the Fairfield County squad took the lead early in the third period and never relinquished it.

With Claridon dropping its opening tourney start this week, Marion County's hopes now are with Prospect which steps into its first tournament action tonight.

A hot streak by the Amanda quintet in the final four minutes of action settled the games' outcome. After Morral tied the score at 43-43 late in the third period and at 47-47 at the start of the final stanza, Amanda pushed ahead 63-50 on 11 straight points before Morral was able to score.

John Craycraft had slimmed Amanda's lead to 49-48 on a foul shot and later brought Morral from the rear on a hook shot which trimmed the Amanda lead to 52-50 before the winners in a three-minute period cleared the boards and dropped in the decisive points.

Francis spelled trouble for Morral all evening. The lanky center's board work and scoring was the main reason for the Morral defeat. He dropped in 25 points and was aided during the second half by Hunter who collected 11 of his tital 16 points in the final two periods.

Morral suffered a blow when its playmaker Junior Bell fouled out with a minute left in the third period. Morral had come from behind to knot the score at 43-43 at the time when Bell was called for charging. He had contacted his fourth personal at the beginning of the second half with Morral leading 34-33 and was promptly lifted for use later in the tilt. Amanda quickly spurted ahead 43-37 before Bell came back in and Morral rallied to tie the score. Three baskets by Hensel and one by Craycraft did the trick.

Hensel's 20th point of the game brought Morral within 47-45 of the winners at the end of the third period and Craycraft's hook at the beginning of the final canto tied the score at 47-47 but Morral couldn't come any closer.

Morral went ahead 3-2 on a foul shot by Jim Shifflet and held the lead until Hunter on a lay-up shoved the winners in front 14-13. The lead changed hands two more times before the period ended with Amanda on top 18-16. Morral moved out front 21-18 and then built up a 32-23 bulge before a spurt by Francis narrowed the Morral lead to 33-30 at intermission.

Amanda took a 35-34 lead at the beginning of the third period and led by from one to six points with the exception of the ties before the winners spurt killed Morral's chances.

Francis led the winners' attack with 25 points while Hunter put in 16. Hensel was tops for Morral with 22 while Craycraft added 16.

Johnnies Dropped In Tourney Contest

Johnsville, Morrow County entrant in the Central District Class B tournament, was bumped by a tough Hebron five 84-57 in its opener at Otterbein gym last night. The loss concluded Johnsville's season at 18-6.

The winners had too much height, weight and speed for Johnsville. Hebron jumped into a 23-8 bulge in the opening quarter and held a 20-point lead for most of the way.

Four Hebron players hit in double figures, with Chuck Monnett netting 30 and George Reichert 25. Glen Myers with 24 points led Johnsville in scoring.

State's Top-Rated Squads Pass Tests in Sectionals

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Top-rated teams continued to move along in Ohio's Class A sectional high school basketball tournaments last night, but a wave of upsets rolled through the Class B competition.

Hamilton's second-rated Big Blue was an easy 70-32 victor over Mount Healthy (3-15) at Cincinnati; Dayton Roosevelt's eighth - place Teddies swamped Dayton Kiser (2-15) 61-32 at Dayton, and Greenfield, tenth in the final Class A poll, defeated Marietta (11-7) at Athens 75-61.

That left Hamilton with an 18-3 record, Dayton Roosevelt with 17-1, and Greenfield with 20-1.

Charles Kirsch's West Mansfield team was the big victim in Class B. After running up 20 straight victories, West Mansfield was ousted 66-64 at Springfield by M. D. Hall's Bradford squad which had been beaten 7 times in 22 games. West Mansfield, seventh in the final Class B ratings, was the first in either top 10 to fall.

Vienna, second by a slim margin to Lockland Wayne, made it 27 in a row with an 80-55 victory over Warren St. Mary at Youngstown, and Bourneville-Twin won its 21st in 22 starts at Waverly by ousting Lychburg (17-7) 84-69.

Class B upset included Xenia Woodrow Wilson (15-7) over Gratis (21-4) by 55-50; Caldwell (8-11) over Salem-Liberty (21-4) by 55-53, and Lima St Rose (13-9) over Willshire (18-4) 66-59.

Weather continued to erase scheduled sectional contests at Mansfield, Ashland, Ashtabula and in the Cleveland area, but others were ready to name qualifiers for next week's district play.

Northeastern district board members will have a job on their hands lining up the events for next week, and they have an emergency meeting on tap for Monday to settle things.

The northeastern qualifiers from 7 Class A secuonals and 6 Class B events are due to move to Kent for next week's play, but at least 10 of the 13 are behind schedule.

H. W. Emswiler, state high school athleuc commissioner, said today if the roads remain clogged in that area the board may decide to set up "emergency centers" for district play on a local basis, instead of sending the 14 Class A and 13 Class B qualifiers to Kent.

First serious injury of the tournament felled Richard Hunter, 15-year-old Salem player, with a fractured skull. He was reported in fair condituon after being injured in Salem's 68-59 victory over Youngstown Chaney in the Youngstown Class A sectional.

Six-Man Tag Team Tops Armory Card

George Macricostas, Jim Lewis and Mars Bennett were winners last night in the wrestling matches at the Marion Armory.

Charlie Carr and Gino Angelo wrestled to a draw in the opening match while in the six-man tag team match, the team of Marcricostas, Carr and Irish McGee was disqualified. The failed to break at the count after 28 minutes of the wildest action seen at the Marion Armory.

Macricostas got Scotty Williams with a body press in 15 minutes in the second match and in the third, Jim Lewis pinned McGee in 10 minutes with a reverse full nelson.

Bennett won the first fall from Belle Drummund in 13 minutes with a body press and then came back to take the third fall with a drop kick in six minutes after Drummund took the second fall in eight minutes with body slams.

Cary Middlecoff Takes Edge in Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, to the surprise of practically no one, held a one-stroke lead today in the $30,000 Houston Opn.

The former Memphis dentist yesterday repeated his usual custom of finding a magic putter in Houston. He ignored an aggravating head cold while methodically beating or tueing par for a first round 66 on the par 72 Memorial Park course.

This left him one stroke ahead of Freddie Haas of New Orleans, winner of the January Palm Springs Open. Bill Nary, the young Tuscon, Ariz., pro, was one stroke behind Haas at 68.

Secretary of State Cites Lack of Interest

Light Vote Predicted in Ohio Primary

By REED SMITH

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's chief election official "guessed" today that the total vote in the May 4 primary election will fall below a million unless campaign interest picks up sharply.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown blamed an apparent general lack of voter interest in the few nomination contests in both Democratic and Republican ranks.

Over 5 Million Potential

Figures showed a potential 5,402,000 Ohio voters in 1952 but only 1,535,055 balloted in the primaries of that presidential election year.

In the non-presidential election year of 1950, the total primary vote was 1,051,064.

Although Ohio's population has increased, officials expect the 1954 primary vote to be considerably less.

Republicans this year have statewide contests only for the U.S. senatorial nomination and a short-term state Supreme Court judgeship. Democrats have three-way contests for lieutenant governor and treasurer and two-man races for attorney general and a full-term Supreme Court judge nomination.

Seven Republicans

In 1950, Republicans had seven candidates seeking nomination for state treasurer. They also had three four-man races the two three-man contests. The Democrats that year had nine candidates for the treasurer's nomination, seven for U.S. senator and two other contested races for state offices.

Voting interest at the county level should prevent the primary total from falling very sharply, officials said.

County interest centers in nomination contests for commissioner, auditor, judges and members of the General Assembly. Fifty counties will vote on Common Pleas Court judge candidates and all but four on aspirants for Probate Court judge. The four are Wyandot, Paulding, Henry and Adams counties.

Brown has completed a series of 12 meetings with county election officials in a swing over the state to acquaint them with new voting laws. He also interviewed most of the 176 election board officials starting new terms.

Can Withdraw Early

Answering a frequently asked question, Brown said primary election candidates can withdraw until ballots are printed, but not afterward. Write-ins for nomination require at least 15 per cent of the total party vote.

Two other questions popped up often at various meetings. Brown said these statutes of long standing covered them:

Candidates filing for county central committee posts need from 5 to 25 signatures obtained in the presence of a notary on their petitions. The requirement differs from those for governor, for example. Such candidates, Brown said, need only to have petition circulators swear before a notary that the signatures are genuine. A bill to make the procedure uniform failed to get through the last Legislature.

The law also says that no candidate can be a precinct official in his own precinct at elections, Brown said.

Kentucky Steelworker Plagued by Hard Luck

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Harold Murphy of nearby Summit was laid off from his job a week ago at the Armco Steel Corp. plant here.

Wednesday night, the family's house was destroyed by fire. All belongings, except a few blankets, were lost.

After the fire, Murphy was searching for a place to live when his car stalled on a railroad crossing. Efforts to move it failed. It was demolished by a train.

On top of all this, his seven children—ranging in age from 12 days to 10 years—all have the chicken pox.

STATE PROVIDES $3 MILLION

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—State Auditor James A. Rhodes reports Ohio contibuted nearly 3 million dollars last year for the care of county tuberculosis patients. The Legislature appropriated $3,060,365 for that purpose and payments totaled $2,917,372, Rhodes said yesterday. The law requires state payments of $2.50 a day for each patient in a county tuberculosis sanitarium and $1.25 a day to county commissioners for county patients in private sanitariums.

'Ice Cycles' Slated To Return To Marion Coliseum April 6-11

A performance of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical comedy "Brigadoon" will be the main attraction as the "Ice Cycles" makes its second appearance in Marion.

The ice show has been booked into the Veterans Memorial Coliseum for six days, April 6 through 11, with a matinee performance the final day. Frank Foster, Coliseum manager, says this is the same ice show that performed in Marion last year. Their headliner last year was Walt Disney's "Cinderella," which was well received here.

"Brigadoon" was a Broadway hit a few years ago, one of a long string of successful Rogers and Hammerstein musicals. A tale built around an old Scottish legend about a town that comes to life only once in a hundred years, the musical possesses some of the favorite Richard Rogers melodies.

As was the case last year, Marion County residents have an opportunity to purchase $1 coupons redeemable on a ticket to the Ice Cycles. The coupon sale is being conducted by 4-H Clubs and vocational-agricultural home economics students in the county schools.

Purchase of a $1 coupon will give 50 cents toward the Marion County Junior fair improvement fund. The coupon may then be redeemed on a $1.50, $2, or $2.50 ticket for the April 6 or 7 performances.

The coupon sale is now in progress with over 1,000 county students participating. Their goal is $1,000 for the Junior fair fund, meaning they hope to sell 2,000 coupons. The sale ends April 3.

The Junior fair, an integral part of the senior fair, is governed by a board of young people elected by those who exhibit at the fair. This Junior fair board is composed of 18 young people serving three-year terms.

Spokesmen said the initial phase of the coupon sale will be confined to the rural areas. However, interested residents of Marion are invited to obtain coupons by writing Box 521, Marion, or contacting the Marion County Agricultural Extension Office, 180 S. State St.

SUMMERSVILLE SERVICE

Closing message in a series of evangelistic services at the Summersville Friends Church in Union County will be given by Rev. Owen Glassburn of Damascus, O., Sunday night. Confused Newsboy Puts Extra Zip in a Headline

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — "Five congressmen shot in a saloon!" shouted the young newsboy.

The Examiner - Enterprise circulation manager, Vernon Strong, did a double take and called the boy aside.

Pointing to the headline, "Five Solons Are Shot in House," he explained "solons" was a synonym for lawmakers.

Women Trained by Red Cross To Serve as Nurses

Home Care of Sick Also Is Taught as Service Project

This is the last in a series of articles on the services of the American Red Cross, which is conducting its annual fund campaign this month. While no house-to-house canvass is planned in Marion, contributions are being sought by the local chapter, since the United Appeals campaign it participated in last fall failed to meet its goal. Contributors may send money to the Red Cross Office, 133 W. Center St., or telephone 2-1653 and contributions will be picked up.

If disaster should suddenly strike in Marion or adjoining communities second in line in caring for the injured or stricken would be the scores of women who have been trained for just such emergencies through the Red Cross nursing services program

With doctors and nurses caring for the most severely injured or ill, women who have devoted hours to learning what to do and how to carry on at such a time in Red Cross classes would be called on to give their services.

THE NURSING SERVICES is one of the most important in the Red Cross program and covers a broad field of instruction

The home care of the sick program includes enrollment of nurses for community service, teaching serving in disasters helping at blood centers, recruitment of nurses for disaster and epidemic duty and other activities

Recognizing the difference between a minor and major illness and knowing what to do often saves anxiety and in many cases proves the old adage that a stitch in time saves nine. Reading the first symptoms of a contageous disease can prevent an epidemic and also speed the recovery of the victim.

THE GOAL OF THE Red Cross nursing services is that at least one member of every family be trained to give simple nursing care

The Red Cross nursing services covers a period of many years

In recent months three classes in home care of the sick were conducted and 33 persons received certificates

The nursing enrollment service includes 71 nurses enrolled and 43 are actively serving in the community through the Red Cross program Eleven nurses have taken instructions in medical history at the blood center

Miss Esther Mautz and Miss Clara Todaro served as instructors for the home care of the sick classes and Mrs John Messenger is chairman of the nursing enrollment program

THROUGH THE RED CROSS volunteer program women of the community also receive valuable training in other community services and contribute hours of service as staff aides, canteen workers Gray Ladies Motor Corps nurse's aides in social welfare and production

As staff aides they do clerical work typing and filing in the chapter office and at the Blood Center in the canteen there is instruction in the preparation of food and volunteers serve at the Blood Center Gray Ladies serve as hostesses at the Blood Center and assist at the City Hospital at the visitors' desk distribute mail and flowers to patients entertain patients by reading perform errands and relieve the staff of other minor duties.

Volunteers on the motor corps are given a working knowledge of mechanics are trained in first aid provide transportation for blood donors and perform other similar duties A training course of 80 hours is necessary to become a nurse s aide Social welfare volunteers serve in the home service department and women in production respond to clothing calls when necessary and provide articles for the local hospital when called upon to do so

Ruling Sought On Refund of Tax Collection

What should be done with the money illegally collected for the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District"

Marion County has joined with 10 others in the district in asking for a court ruling on this question The money was collected last fall before the Ohio Supreme Court ruled the tax was illegally collected because it did not have the approval of the county commissioners or the electorate Now the counties want to know how to refund the money

A petition of Madison County prosecutor Forest E Sidener asked for a ruling from Judge James Bell has been joined by Marion Franklin Pickaway Ross Sandusky, Wyandot Crawford Pike Vinton and Scioto counties The Associated Press reported

Judge Bell stopped repayment in 10 counties at Sidener s request Sidener also asked the court to determine the share each county must pay to dissolve the district if that action occurs

The conservancy district issued the levy for flood control and water conservation purposes

Radio and Television

By John Crosby

Constructive and Creative

It's always presumptuous for a man to try and judge a show designed entirely for women — but I will anyhow. "Home," the new NBC television show aimed at women, should be a whale of a show on every count. It has aims that are intelligent and ambitious. It has scope. It has taste. It has Arlene Francis. What more do you want?

J. CROSBY

Its objectives — to start at the beginning — are to instruct and entertain and bedazzle women on the subjects dearest to their hearts —home furishings, cooking, babies, child psychology, gardening, etiquette, recreation and health.

That would seem to leave out the dearest thing in most women's hearts — men. But it doesn't. They get experts on this show to tell the girls how to feed the guy better, how to keep him healthy, how to clothe him and even how to understand him better. How good the experts are only time will tell but they seemed, at first blush, topbole.

ESSENTIALLY, I GUESS, this will be a "how to do it" and self-help type of program with a dash of culture (interviews with authors and other deep thinkers) and a bit of pure fun. It has been called an electronics magazine, an apt description, and as such it has a bit of the moral fervor of Reader's Digest and of the sweep of Life.

Pat Weaver, president of NBC, whose brain child this largely is, has succumbed to his weakness for gadgets, but the gadgets make quite a lot of sense. "Home" emanates from a specially built studio surrounded by a translucent plastic skin for rear projection and special effects. It's a 6-foot circular stage with revolving stages, kitchens, gadgets that revolve things and tilt things and lift things —all to show them off better — and a workshop and even a garden to grow things in.

There's also a special effects area which supposedly can produce rain, snow, fog or sleet to show the effects of bad weather on various kinds of merchandise. It didn't work very well on the opening show when it was supposed to unleash a downpour of rain, but I'm sure they'll have it in order pretty soon.

ON THE OPENING SHOW, after an introduction of the multitudinous editors, there was a fashion show of party dresses for girls from 6 to 60 (an $8 dimity job for a six-year-old to a $50 creation for grandma), all described by the fashion and beauty editor Eve Hunter, who hereby wins the Crosby award for using the most sensible, straight-forward fashion lingo I ever heard. ("This is a two-piece organdy and it sells for about $20.)

From those prices you readily gather this show is pitched at the vast mass of women, not at the country club set. (Next day they told how to make a dress.)

Then Dr. Rose Franzblau, who might be described as the problem editor, described what she proposes to do, which is to help people understand their marriage, their children and themselves. This is a little on the Dorothy Dix side —you're invited to write in your problems — but it will be cast, I guess, on a much higher and more enlightened level of human psychology than that of the late Miss Dix.

AS FOR THE REST of the hour there were films of a couple of babies being nuzzled by puppies (strictly for laughs), an interview between Miss Francis and a woman connected with a community theater in Greenwich (with movies) describing how to start a community theater and what fun it is, a lesson by Poppy Cannon, the food editor, on how to make vichyssoise, shopping hints on new gadgets to buy ("The Hoover people have just about over-reached themselves," the man said, speaking of a new vacuum cleaner) and a lesson on how to arrange furniture in rooms of various sizes and shapes.

Through it all Miss Francis bubbled and smiled and pulled things together in expert fashion. talked much too fast — but I imagine they'll settle down to a more respectable pace after they get over opening night jitters.

She talked too fast — everyone

This is the sort of show that television ought to do all the time. NBC deserves a large pat on the back, especially when you consider what they might have put in there instead. (Four more soap operas or a couple more agony shows, for example.) This is, in the best sense of the word, constructive and creative television programming. Whether it is also popular television, the women will have to answer for themselves.

Conservancy District Reels Under Salvo of Suits

Bombarded with litigation, the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy District is rocking on its financial foundations.

No one knows for sure what will happen, but many feel that law suits, filed by several member counties, threatens to kill the district.

Before one can understand the problems that face the district today, it is necessary to know a little of its background and history.

IN OHIO, a conservancy district is a political subdivision created under the state Conservancy Act of 1914 with the purpose of controling floods and conserving water resources.

The Conservancy Act is an outgrowth of Ohio's great 1913 flood which took 454 lives and caused damage estimated at more than three million dollars. In the Scioto and Sandusky basins, it was the worst flood ever recorded.

The Scioto-Sandusky district, organized in 1934 under the Conservancy Act, consists of 17 counties in the Scioto and Sandusky basins, stretching through west-central Ohio from Lake Erie to the Ohio River.

Included are all of Marion, Delaware, Union, Madison, Franklin, Pickaway, Ross and Fayette Counties and parts of Sandusky, Seneca, Wyandot, Crawford, Morrow, Pike, Vinton, Highland and Scioto Counties.

ALTHOUGH THE SCIOTO flows south and the Sandusky north their basins were joined in the district because at high flood stages it is possible for the two rivers and their tributaries to overflow into each other in Marion, Wyandot, Hardin and Crawford Counties where the watersheds are adjoining.

The district comes under the jurisdiction of a conservancy court which is composed of one common pleas judge from each member-county. It was this court which organized the district in December, 1934.

The affairs of the district are administered by a three - man board of directors appointed by the court.

The present directors are Howard F. Guthery of Marion, Joseph V. Vanmeter of Chillicothe and John H. Dunlap Jr. of Williamsport in Pickaway County.

When the district was first organized, the idea was to finance it with federal funds under the Public Works Administration's make-work policy. However, the court ordered the member-counties to loan the district sufficient funds to cover preliminary expenses. Today these loans with interest amount to some $28,000.

Before the district could qualify for the federal funds, it was necessary to submit a preliminary report to the government. The job of drawing up this report went to the late Professor C. E. Sherman of Ohio State University who had been studying the two river basins for years. Sherman completed his report in less than three months, but it was too late to secure a federal allotment.

The next step forward was paved by the federal Flood Control Acts of 1937-38 which provided that the federal government would pay the entire cost of a flood control project if estimated benefits exceeded estimated costs.

IN 1938 THE DELAWARE reservoir was selected for construction by the government under these acts. The first federal appropriation for the project came in December, 1945, and the Corps of Engineers began the job shortly thereafter.

After World War II several conditions existed in the district which made the directors realize that the preparation of a comprehensive plan could not be delayed.

First off, there had been below-normal rainfall since 1930, resulting in low stream conditions. But there was also the ever-present danger of floods and the need for their control. Furthermore, there were parties who were interested in developing the resources of the area for recreation and other purposes.

These conditions gave rise to the fear that individual projects would be planned to meet specific problems without considering the overall needs, benefiting some to the detriment of others.

TO FINANCE the development of a plan the directors levied a .3 mill assessment against all real estate in the district. This assessment, levied in 1947, yielded a revenue of about $290,000.

The district's engineering staff went to work on a plan in 1948. It was adopted by the directors in January, 1951, and approved by the Conservancy district court the following July.

The plan calls for a water storage reservoir near Bucyrus; seven flood control and water conservation reservoirs including the Delaware dam; local flood protection at Fremont, Columbus and Chillicothe; eight rural levees along the Scioto below Columbus; and a program for controling water runoff and preventing soil erosion.

It was shortly after the plan was announced in the fall of 1950 that legal difficulties began to bog down the district.

—:—

ONE OF THE proposed projects was the Mill Creek reservoir which would remove some 8,500 acres from tax duplicates in Delaware and Union Counties, require the relocation of the village of Ostrander and the rerouting of U. S. Route 36 and the New York Central Railway.

Led by Delaware Prosecutor Clyde Lewis and Luther Liggett, then Union County prosecutor, citizens of the two counties began their fight against the district, and the legal skirmishing began.

Lewis and Liggett ordered their county auditors to withhold the final 1947 levy payments to the district until the district returned the counties' shares of the original loan.

The district countered by filing suit against the counties to collect the back taxes. Then in May, 1952, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled that the district must repay the loan. Several other counties jumped in then to file suits of their own.

Things became intensified in August, 1952, when the district directors levied a second .3 mill assessment.

IN A LETTER to the judges of the district court, the directors stated that some of the money raised in that levy should be used to repay the counties the $28,000 they advanced the district to get it started.

The levy would have brought in more than that amount, but the directors said the additional funds would be used in the future for taking care of amendments to the official plan, legal fees for creating subdistricts or increasing the area of the district, appraisals of property and other incidental expenses.

Lewis challenged the second levy in action taken directly to the Ohio Supreme Court. Last July the court handed down the decisions which may provide the district's death blow.

The court ruled that the district's levies were taxes, not assessmets, and, as such, had to be approved by voters or boards of county commissioners before being collected.

—:—

ONE DISTRICT official, Secretary Allen I. Pretzman, predicted that an attemp to have the assessment approved as a tax would fail for lack of general acceptance.

That's the present status of the Scioto-Sandusky district.

Under court order it must pay back the $28,000 it has borrowed from the member counties, but it has only some $12,500 left in its treasury. The only way it can raise sufficient funds is by taxation, but the chances of having a district tax approved appear to be slim.

Dissolution of the district appears to be the answer.

Guthery suggests the conservancy program could be carried out by breaking it up into smaller units.

"Unless some plan for financing the work of the district is devised, probably the only way the works could be constructed would be to divide the districts into smaller units and proceed on a local basis," he said.

"The southern counties have suffered most from the Scioto floods and would gain the greatest benefit from flood control," he said. "It is possible that a tax to finance a district might be approved by the electorate in some of these counties."

GUTHERY SAID IT might be possible that smaller districts could be set up in the northern area to handle local problems. These problems include flood control at Green Camp, LaRue, Prospect, Fremont, Tiffin and water supply at Bucyrus and other places.

When the comprehensive plan was adopted, it was the officials' idea to delay construction until some date when it would be more feasible to carry out the plan, Guthery said.

Such a time will probably be a period of low economic activity. At that time work on the district's projects would provide jobs for unemployed and, in general, help boost economic activity in the area.

STEVE CANYON By Milton Caniff

AM I GETTING THE SHAKES IN MY OLD AGE? I HAVE A FEELING OF FOREBODING ABOUT THIS TRIP WITH THAT HOPHEAD KID PILOT...
...I GUESS IT WAS TOO MUCH TO HOPE THAT I COULD BE ASSIGNED TO FLY INTO RED CHINA— PICK UP SOME HEROIN AND CART IT TO A PLACE WHERE THE NARCOTICS BOYS COULD USE IT AS EVIDENCE AGAINST THE COMMIES!
AGAIN I FIND YOU ON HAND EARLY FOR A FLIGHT CANYON!
YES, BOSS-DOLL MULDOON! WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO MAKE ME A FULL PILOT SO I CAN SLEEP LATER?
I AM HAPPY THAT YOU ARE SUCH A CAREFUL OPERATOR, SINCE OUR YOUNG PILOT HAS NOT YET APPEARED!
OH, WE'LL GET YOUR AIRPLANE THERE AND BACK!
I HOPE SO.. BECAUSE I AM GOING WITH YOU!

THE HEART OF JULIET JONES By Stan Drake

SURE, WE'LL MAKE AND MARKET THE ENAMEL OURSELVES! LISTEN, FOLKS, AND I HOPE THIS DOESN'T SOUND LIKE BRAGGING—HAL MOSBY CAN SELL ANYTHING—I MEAN ANYTHING—AND THIS STUFF YOU'VE INVENTED HAS A READY-MADE MARKET JUST CRYING FOR BARRELS OF IT!
MAYBE, HAL, BUT YOU'VE GOT TO ADMIT WE DON'T KNOW MUCH ABOUT THE LASTING PROPERTIES OF THE ENAMEL ...HOW IT'LL STAND UP UNDER DIFFERENT TEMPERATURES—
HOW CAN YOU TALK THAT WAY, POPS?! MR. MOSBY KNOWS THE SCORE—AND HE SAYS YOU CAN MAKE A FORTUNE OUT OF IT! BUT NO, YOU'RE JUST TOO SCARED!

BLONDIE By Chic Young

BLONDIE, WILL YOU COME DOWN AND SHOW ME HOW TO WORK THE WASHING MACHINE?
YOU PUT YOUR LAUNDRY THERE AND THE SOAP THERE AND TURN THIS SWITCH
SLOSH
MODERN SCIENCE IS A WONDERFUL THING.

DICK TRACY By Chester Gould

SAM, BUY A CHEAP BED SHEET AND HAVE CAR 33 RUN IT OUT HERE.
2-WAY WRIST RADIO
SHEET?
YES, WE'RE GOING TO SPREAD IT ON TOP OF THIS TREE TO MARK IT FROM THE AIR.
A COUPLE OF TREE EXPERTS ARE COMING OUT TO PLACE THE SHEET. THEN I'M GOING UP AND MAKE AERIAL SHOTS OF THE ENTIRE AREA.
Tree Specialists
MEANWHILE—
SO YOU'RE COMING BACK? OH, DEWDROP, IT WILL BE SO NICE TO HAVE YOU AND YOUR HUSBAND AND THAT DARLING BABY HOME AGAIN.

RIP KIRBY By Alex Raymond

THERE'S HASKIN'S NIGHT CLUB, MR. KIRBY. CLOSED UP TIGHT.
LET'S SEE WHAT IT LOOKS LIKE AROUND IN BACK.
OH OH, BARS ON THE WINDOWS! HASKIN MUST HAVE BEEN AFRAID OF CROOKS..OTHER CROOKS, THAT IS.
LET ME TRY 'EM!...
NICE WORK, CRUSHER!
HEAVENS! HE TWANGS THEM LIKE HARD-STRINGS!

SUPERMAN By Wayne Boring

YOU MEAN—YOU ACTUALLY WANTED THESE HOODLUMS TO GET THAT KRYPTONITE FOR YOU? BUT SUPERMAN—KRYPTONITE'S SUPPOSED TO HAVE A DEADLY EFFECT ON YOU!
RIGHT—EXCEPT THAT A STRANGE FORM OF KRYPTONITE HAD ALREADY DESTROYED MY POWERS IN SUCH A WAY THAT ONLY ANOTHER DOSE OF KRYPTONITE RADIATION COULD RESTORE THEM!
SO BY DISGUISING MYSELF AS AN OLD PROSPECTOR, I CONVINCED THESE THUGS TO DIG UP THAT KRYPTONITE METEOR FOR ME. YOU SEE, HAVING LOST MY POWERS, I WAS UNABLE TO DO IT MYSELF!
OW! WE WANTED TO KILL HIM—AND INSTEAD, WE CURED HIM! WE PROVIDED THE ANTIDOTE!

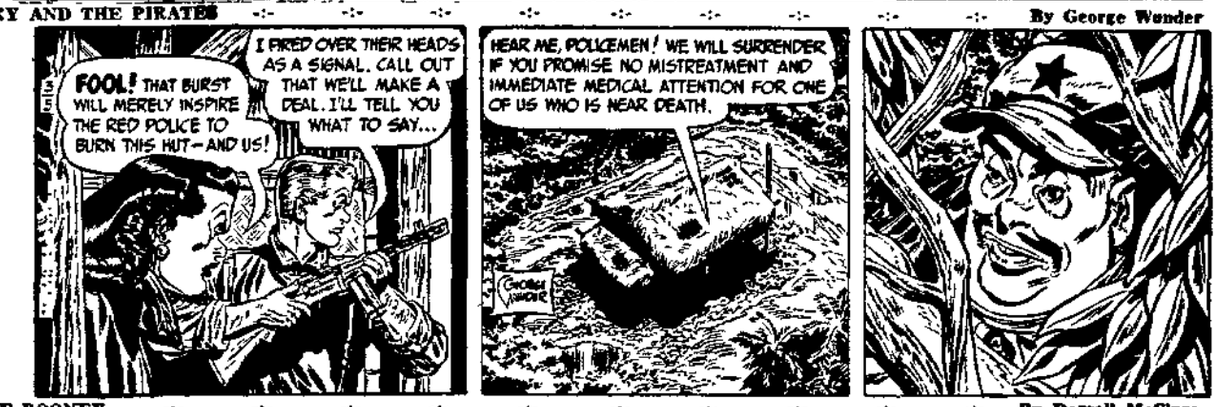
GASOLINE ALLEY By Frank King

Haven't you started moving, Hope? This is the month the rent is paid for, you know
Yes, Grandfather, but I'm worried about the months after that.
Listen! I want to do something for my great grandson, Phylip Figg Waller—
Also for you and Corky. Corky can pay part of the rent. I'll pick up the check for the rest.
You'll have at least a year in a fine new home.
Gramps, you're the craziest!

JOE PALOOKA By Ham Fisher

URANIUM BILLYUNS
QUIET
YOU CAN'T SEE MR. WALSH...HE KEEPS MUTTERING "URANIUM"—SEEMS TO BE OUT OF HIS HEAD.. YOU CAN'T SEE HIM... HMMM
URANIUM.. BILLYUNS... URANIUM... BILLYUNS... OHH...TH' JOINK!
IT WAS ON OUR PROPITTY... BILLYUNS...TH' JOIK ,BILLYUNS ...JOIK...
ALRIGHT...NOW JUST RELAX... THAT SEDATIVE WILL QUIET YOUR NERVES.
THESE ARE TWO OF THE STRANGEST CASES WE'VE HAD. SHOULDN'T DRINK IN THE SUN.
THEY HAD ONE OVER AT ST. FRANCIS' HOSPITAL. HE THOUGHT HE WAS A BASS DRUM. KEPT MUTTERING...BOOM... TIDDLE BOOM... THAT'S ALL.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES By George Wunder



FOOL! THAT BURST WILL MERELY INSPIRE THE RED POLICE TO BURN THIS HUT—AND US!
I FIRED OVER THEIR HEADS AS A SIGNAL. CALL OUT THAT WE'LL MAKE A DEAL. I'LL TELL YOU WHAT TO SAY...
HEAR ME, POLICEMEN! WE WILL SURRENDER IF YOU PROMISE NO MISTREATMENT AND IMMEDIATE MEDICAL ATTENTION FOR ONE OF US WHO IS NEAR DEATH.

ANNIE ROONEY By Darrell McClure

MR COBB, I AM WELL AWARE OF YOUR DOUBTS AS TO MY ABILITY TO ACT AS LITTLE ANNIE'S BODYGUARD—
FRANKLY, YES, MISS BRIGHTON—I MEAN NO OFFENSE—
BUT YOU ARE VERY YOUNG, FRAIL AND IMMATURE FOR SUCH AN ASSIGNMENT—
WOULD YOU GRANT ME THE RIGHT TO DEMONSTRATE SOME OF MY QUALIFICATIONS?
HOL'-LEE MACKEREL!! QUICK ON THE DRAW AND A DEAD SHOT TO BOOT— SHE'LL DO!!
IT'S MISS RUTH AN' MR COBB—GOLLY MR COBB IS SMILIN' FOR THE FIRST TIME IN DAYS!

Tactics Vary but Aim's Same

Reds Unchanged in Year Following Stalin's Death

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Today a year ago Stalin died, old and stubborn. The men he had trained to succeed him took over Russia. Any real change in that year? None. The tactics are different. The aim's the same.

Stalin had become too obviously brutish and inflexible. The new leaders are smoother. They've spent a year trying to undo, from the Russian view, the mischief Stalin caused. They've been pretty successful at it.

His mischief was not only in alarming the West into rearming by letting the Korean War start but then being incapable of doing anything to discourage the rearming.

The last thing the Russians wanted was a single West European army, called the European Defense Community, which would include rearmed Germans and French. Stalin's tactics set EDC in motion.

As soon as he was out of the way his sucessors shifted tactics. They talked soft, expressed pious intentions, let the Korean War subside in an armistice.

Since many French didn't want Germans to rearm, even in a single army with them, the new Russian attitude gave them more excuse for delay in joining EDC. They still haven't acted to join. Without the French, there can be no EDC.

The new Kremlin men, headed by Malenkov and Molotov, have had some family trouble. They knocked off Lavrenty Beria, secret police chief, who was their No. 2 man under Malenkov after Stalin's death.

They've had internal purges. They've had some public setbacks, as in the June riots of the East Germans behind the Iron Curtain. They've promised the Soviet people more good things of life, probably to keep them quiet.

But they've had successes, besides helping delay EDC. They've had a hydrogen explosion which served at least one good purpose over here: it shook American planners out of any complacency about a long head start on Russians in making hydrogen bombs.

The Kremlin men seem to have turned a corner, at least for a time: instead of building up one individual as Lenin and Stalin were, they're putting more emphasis on the top Kremlin group.

So far the West hasn't been able to retrieve from behind the curtain a single inch of Communist real estate although refugees from communism still pour through.

Although neither the West nor Russia has yielded anything, the two sides in the past year have talked with each other, which may seem like some improvement over Stalin's last days, and will talk some more.

They talked at Berlin. The United States and Russia have had some talks in this country about President Eisenhower's plan for pooling some atomic material for peaceful purposes.

And the Western nations will meet in Geneva with the Communists—Russian, Chinese and North Korean—to talk about Korea and the Indochina war. Optimists say while both sides keep talking there's a chance for peace.

Maybe there is. But it will take some proving to show that anything vital has changed. The West and Russia are n nearer disarmament now than when Stalin was alive. That, for sure, seems a long way off.

Crestline Man Finds Painting Relaxes

Alven Tullis Launched Hobby 50 Years Ago As Indiana Youth

CRESTLINE — Every once in a while he picks up a magazine or newspaper and reads that another Hollywood star has taken up painting as a hobby, Crestline's Alven M. Tullis can't help but chuckle.

He learned over 50 years ago how relaxing and personally rewarding a hobby painting can become.

It all started when he was a boy of 14 in Ft. Wayne, Ind. Influenced by a neighboring artist, Joseph Crowder, who had recently come to the town from Germany, young Tullis was "always drawing pictures."

—:—

CROWDER, NOTICING the earnestness of the young neighbor, took him under his wing and taught him the fundamentals of the art of oil painting.

From that time on, the 71-year-old Crestline artist has been using every spare moment for his hobby. As a result, he now has an accumulation of about 120 paintings to his credit, not counting those he has sold.

He prides himself on his versatility in his painting. He has no one specialty, but instead likes to do a variety of types of painting —ranging from still-lifes to portraits to landscapes.

Since the time Tullis broke a leg some six years ago, he hasn't been able to be very active. Before this accident, he was able to do quite a bit of religious painting in churches. For example, he did a series of paintings depicting the Ten Commandments in a nearby Catholic church.

—:—

BUT SINCE this type of painting requires tricky maneuvering on scaffolds, he explains that he has had to give it up.

At one time recently 38 Tullis paintings were on exhibit in the Crestline mayor's office. He hopes that some day a similar exhibition could be arranged in Marion.

The Crestline artist has one "gripe" about art. "People will buy reproductions of famous paintings but are reluctant to pay the same amount, and sometimes less, for originals painted by local artists," he points out.

That painting is a relaxing hobby, Tullis can tell you from first-hand experience. A son, Seymour Tullis, recently was killed in a traffic accident, and only last month the artist's wife, Alberta, died after a long illness. During these two periods of misfortune, Tullis found that painting helped him over the rough spots.

CONTRIBUTING THEIR share of help during Mrs. Tullis' illness were a daughter, Mrs. Opal Foreman, and her daughter, Elaine, and the daughter-in-law, Winifred Tullis, all residing nearby in Crestline.

Tullis has lived in Crestline 46 years and was a Pennsylvania Railroad employe for 41 years. He used his occasional lay-off times to good advantage by doing painting assignments in nearby churches.

PUTTING THE FINISHING touches on a portrait of the children of a Chicago friend is Alven M. Tullis, artist of Crestline. Next to the portrait is a landscape, typical of the many Tullis has painted. Since he broke a leg six years ago, the artist has been forced to work at this easel in the kitchen of his Crestline home.

Some of Tullis' enthusiasm for painting apparently has rubbed off on other members of his family. A brother, Calvin, also is an artist, and both his daughter and granddaughter have become quite adept with the brush and oils.

Among is most prized possessions is a letter written on White House stationery thanking him for an oil portrait of Margaret Truman which he painted several years ago and mailed to the Truman family.

Other samples of his work include murals in Crestline and Marion. A mural in the Crestline division office of the Pennsylvania Railroad pictures a Keystone engine so realistically portrayed that "it seems to be coming right at you," in the words of the artist's daughter.

A set of murals is located in a Marion restaurant.

Numbered among his religious works of art are life-sized cutouts of persons and animals traditionally associated with the Christmas story. These are used on the lawn of a Crestline church.

Sales Tax Receipts Increase in County

An increase in the sale of prepaid tax receipts of $17,749 for the week ending Feb. 20, 1954, compared with $13,452 for the same period last year, was shown in Marion County, according to statistics in a report released today by State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy.

On a statewide basis, however, a decline was reflected, with $2,557,141 listed for the 1954 period in comparison with $2,617,777 for the 1953 week.

Prepaid tax receipts listed for neighboring counties, with 1953 figures in parentheses, were: Crawford, $10,592 ($10,479); Delaware, $5,114 ($5,072); Hardin, $4,892 ($6,683; Morrow, $3,048 ($2,687); Union, $3,460 ($4,032); and Wyandot, $4,397 ($4,964).

2 Oklahoma Democrats Seek Senate Nomination

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A two-way race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator from Oklahoma shaped up today between a couple of millionaire oilmen, both ex-governors, in what promises to be a very spirited campaign.

Winning the Democratic nomination usually assures election in traditionally Democratic Oklahoma.

Roy J. Turner, 59, Oklahoma City oilman who owns a widely known hereford ranch at Sulphur, Okla., said yesterday he will oppose incumbent Robert S. Kerr.

Barbershop Harmonies Revived by Marion Group

Chapter of SPEBSQSA To Be Chartered Here Sometime in Spring

If you are old enough, you may remember handlebar mustaches, straw hats and striped jackets called blazers. And thinking of these things leads to memories of barbershop quartets singing

"Sweet Adeline, my Adeline,
At night dear heart, for you
I pine . . ."

Fortunately for Marion, at least two people here did remember the barbershop harmonies And these two, Frank Butterworth and Walter Mathiot, decided to do something about it

FRANK HAD ALWAYS been active in quartet singing and had sung on radio once Walter says today, a little sadly, "boys don't sing in the streets like they used to when I was a kid" These two thought a chapter of SPEBSQSA—Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America—ought to be formed in Marion

Last October, Dave Youngs secretary of the Kenton chapter, paid Walter and Frank a visit to help them form one. Their work is due to be climaxed shortly in a charter presentation ceremony As Walter says, "There'll be some good singing that night"

To get the unit started, Frank and Walter contacted friends they thought might be interested. The first meeting was held in October and 12 attended. Charles Morbitt was the first dues paying member. Before long there were 20 members, enough to apply to international headquarters in Detroit for a charter The organization meets each Monday night in the YMCA and the new building resounds to barbershop harmonies

THEY ARE PRACTICING as a chorus mostly. Mathiot explains that chorus singing is excellent training for quartet work. He also states that the local chapter — called the Francis Marion Chapter after the founder of the city —is fortunate in having among its members a nationally-known quartet, the Buckeye Four This is the quartet of the Eagles Lodge that for the last two years has won the national Eagles Quartet championship.

SPEBSQSA was begun in 1938 by Owen C. Cash of Tulsa, Okla He and some friends got together to sing the old-fashioned, "catch-as-catch-can" harmony to favorite old songs. The group attracted statewide and then national attention, becoming officially organized in 1943. Now there are chapters all over America as well as Canada and our insular possessions

THE TONGUE-TWISTING organization is now well established with business and professional men as its backbone

Besides furnishing sheet music and literature the national organization sponsors song-fests called 'parades" These parades are well attended by barbershop harmony devotees and the money raised by them is often donated to community causes The parent unit also manages the national quartet competitions. After area and regional contests, 40 quartets are left to vie for top five honors

The Marion chapter will hold its first "parade" on the night of the charter presentation The date has not yet been selected Quartets from surrounding chapters will come over to help make it a memorable musical evening.

Mathiot extends an invitation to all to attend the "parade" and to join the male organization He says, "If you like to sing the old songs and like good fellowship you'll like the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America"

LISTENING FOR the proper blending of the tones is Bill Busch (center) chorus director of the Marion Chapter, SPEBSQSA Making with the golden tones are (left to right) Ben Wiant director Art Martin associate secretary, W C Stumbo president and Walter Mathiot secretary-treasurer These men along with Frank Butterworth were instrumental in bringing the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America to Marion Other officers not pictured here are Wilson Tway, vice president, and Harold Alexander, music librarian

Montgomery, Ala., Asks Its Boll Weevil Returned

MONTGOMERY, Ala (AP)—A $100 reward has been offered by the Montgomery Advertiser for the return of the boll weevil which disappeared from atop its monument in the city square at nearby Enterprise

The famed monument was unveiled in 1919 as a tribute to the insect which damaged so much cotton that Alabama farmers were forced away from dependence on a single major crop

Fighter Discovers Saddler Is Tough, Walks From Ring

AKRON Ohio (AP)—Three and a half rounds of featherweight champion Sandy Saddler were enough for Charlie Slaughter He just turned around and walked out of the ring muttering I was outclassed

The unorthodox end to the feature bout in Akron Armory last night stunned 2 501 fans who had braved snow and frigid temperatures to see the champion in action against the Elizabeth City, N J fighter

The referee ruled it a technical knockout victory for Saddler at 1 20 of the fourth

The fight was billed as a 10-round non title contest

Slaughter had taken a steady pounding from the second round on when he suddenly stopped fighting, threw up his hands in disgust and went back to his corner He told reporters later he simply couldn't take further punishment

Harding High To Be Host for Band Festival

Musicians From Six League Schools Will Take Part in Concert

Harding High School will be host to the Buckeye League band festival for the first time when approximately 550 musicians will gather here April 2 for their annual concert.

High school bands from Fremont, Tiffin, Fostoria, Bowling Green and Findlay will be represented in the last festival of the present Buckeye League. Bowling Green, Fostoria and Tiffin have withdrawn from the league, effective next year.

Plans are being made to replace the schools so that the league will continue, Harding principal C. W. Gabler said.

Arriving here in the afternoon, the band members will take part in a social program and a dinner in the Harding lunchroom before the evening concert. Miss Helen Hutchins, lunchroom supervisor, will be in charge of the dinner.

School officials and their wives will be guests at a buffet luncheon by the home economics class under Miss Pauline Drake's supervision.

No admission to the concert will be charged although a collection will be made to help defray expenses of the bands.

Presidential Patience

One thought keeps creeping through the welter of hard words and public perplexities that keep Washington foremost in the news.

Harry Truman, a chief executive who shot from the hip — who talked impetuously off the cuff — would have set no example for presidential patience in the kind of situation which besets President Eisenhower.

In this week's White House press conference, seven leading questions were asked which would have given the President opportunities to make inflammatory replies. He replied to each question in a manner which revealed previous thought but also revealed a firm intention to stay out of the fruitless squabbles which delight controversialists.

President Eisenhower's fundamental principle in his job, as revealed in his latest press conference and in several previous conferences, is to rspect all the rights of Congress.

He believes absolutely in the division of public power prescribed in the Constitution. He has had no provocation so far to trespass on the province of the courts. He has had the customary provocation to try to dictate to Congress and to berate and belittle it when there is friction between it and the White House representing the executive function.

But not one bitter word has escaped his lips. He is setting one of the finest examples of presidential patience since the example set by George Washington, another soldier president who learned how to be patient in a hard school.

Psychology of Inflation

One thought must haunt government officials preparing to dose the national economy with inflationary stimulants if it does not rally of its own accord.

If they could stir up a war scare — any kind of a war scare — they would need no other inflationary stimulants. There wouldn't need to be a war; the threat of war would do the job.

Millions of Americans then would start to buy up everything from coffee to cars. They would create a seller's market with strident demands for goods before prices started to go up. They would do exactly what they started to do in 1940, when they saw World War II coming and in 1950 when they grew nervous about the war in Korea. They would start hoarding — buying in anticipation of their future needs.

In the pre-World War II period, the index of wholesale prices jumped from 51 in 1940 to 56 in 1941 and then to 64 the following year. By 1950 it had gone back to 99 from its all-time high of 104 in 1948. But with the news of the Korean war, the index leaped to 103 in 1950 and to nearly 115 the following year.

The psychology of inflation is as powerful as the economics of inflation. That is why so many earnest spokesmen are declaring the Republican credo that the United States can adjust itself to life without wartime casualty lists and waste.

The American people have numberless needs which can be satisfied by their productivity. The satisfaction of many of the needs has been put off because of war. The time has come now — unless some new war erupts — to rebuild, renew and refurbish, instead of to blow up, knock down and destroy.

If that can be done, and it can be done if enough Americans will believe it can be done, the effect will be the same as that which used to be achieved accidentally when Washington officials hinted darkly that various commodities were about to be rationed. They used to start buying panics that way.

Squeezed to a Point

The president of Brandeis University, Dr. Abram L. Sachar, warns that the strength of the United States is being sapped by anti-intellectualism.

Dr. Sachar said a few days ago that the worst thing which can befall an American citizen with political ambitions is to be accused of having an academic attitude — to be called an "egghead." Gifted men with high potentials for public service, he went on to say, are being forced aside by primitives and bully-boys who exemplify the "survival of the unfittest."

These ideas are not new, nor are the primitives and bully-boys of politics. But there is something new about the plight of "eggheads." They are caught between pressures stronger than ever squeezed them before. Perhaps that is why their heads are figuratively egg-shaped.

The pressure to become academically superior is stronger than ever before, because academic superiority is the basis for admitting potential eggheads to college. Business, industry, the professions and the arts and sciences keep raising the standards from year to year with their demands for more education.

Yet, any citizen with political ambitions who betrays by his thinking and speaking that he has learned through education how to behave as a creature of reason rather than one of passion is placed at a disadvantage by ruthless competitors who make a fetish of behaving as if they had no education at all in anything but saloon fighting.

Notable Achievement

McCarthy Has Roused Army From Red Lethargy

All the statements from the White House with their hortatory words about "fair play" in dealing with Communists and all the comments by the critics of Sen. McCarthy cannot erase the simple fact that Dr. Irving Peress, known to the Army as a Communist was promoted to be a major and received from the U.S. Army a certificate of honorable service.

He received that certificate despite the fact that he refused to tell his own government the full facts about his behavior during his period of service in the Army.

Thus has red tape and Army negligence been responsible once more for one of the tragic distortions of American honor

For it is military red tape which has kept all the facts from being known as to why the proper orders were not transmitted promptly enough so as to alert our military forces at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941. Why were the requests of Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short for a court-martial refused?

It is Army red tape which to this day keeps all the facts from being known as to why the anguished appeal of Gen. Van Fleet for ammunition to supply our troops in Korea was disregarded and who were the persons responsible.

It is Army red tape which to this day prevents a congressional committee from uncovering the facts as to who were the persons responsible recently for the inefficiency of Army officers in handling Communists inside the Army.

-:-

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has recognized the gravity of the problem. In his latest statement he says:

"The Department of the Army made serious errors in handling the Peress case and the secretary of the Army so stated publicly, almost a month ago.

"The Army is correcting its procedures to avoid such mistakes in the future. I am completely confident that Secretary Stevens will be successful in this effort."

But is this all that's going to happen? What about the persons who made the blunders? Are they to go scot free? And would anything like this have been detected had it not been for the persistence of the permanent subcommittee on investigations of the Senate Committee on Government Operations, of which Sen. McCarthy happens to be chairman?

The President discussed "codes of fair procedure" which he hopes congressional committees will establish and said that "in opposing Communism, we are defeating ourselves if either by design or carelessness, we use methods that do not conform to the American sense of justice and fair play."

What instances in this whole Peress record can the President cite which any "code" of procedure would cure? Maj. Peress was before Sen. McCarthy's committee and refused to tell whether he had been engaged in espionage while in the Army or whether he had recruited persons in the Army for the Communist cell of which he was a member.

He refused to tell who in the Army aided him in avoiding overseas duty. He had counsel at his side at all times during the hearing. Was he not treated fairly?

GEN. ZWICKER sat through the hearing at which a New York policewoman identified Peress as a Communist, and he said he learned nothing new or anything to cause him cocern.

He admitted that, despite his knowledge, he did nothing at all to hold up the honorable discharge certificate. He admitted that, if he had been told that the night before a man had stolen $50, he would have been able to hold up that man's honorable discharge.

Sen. McCarthy conducted a cross - examination of Gen. Zwicker which was vigorous. It was not unusual in congressional committee inquiries except in one respect.

Exasperated and angered by the general's indifference to the honorable discharge procedure, the senator said the general wasn't fit to wear the uniform. That was a bad mistake on the senator's part.

A loss of temper is one thing and the right to cross-examine penetratingly is something else. Neither one is going to be restrained by any "codes of fair procedure."

SENATORS OF THE "liberal" Democratic side got up on the floor of the Senate the other day and called an innocent man a liar and said he wasn't fit to hold public office. What "code of fair procedure" can restrain the tongue of any senator who says what he pleases on the floor of the Senate? It is distasteful, to be sure, but it is a right inherent in our system of checks and balances. For it was Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes who once wrote that "Freedom of speech is freedom for the thought we hate."

Condemnation of the loss of temper by Sen. McCarthy for his bitter comment at the Zwicker hearing is in order, but this cannot obscure his vigorous pursuit of Communists in government. Nor can it wipe out the simple fact that, but for the Wisconsin Senator's crusade against the tragic indifference of the Army system toward Communists in the Army, the new regulations and corrective measures just announced would probably never have been issued.

This at least is a creditable achievement and spells progress.

Approaching Event

By TRUMAN TWILL

This lady we know pretty well was reading our piece about fishermen who undergo discomfort and privations to re-establish contact with the good earth. She snorted.

"Funny how the urge hits them hardest during housecleaning," she snapped, meaning no particular offense because her roommate is not the kind to go fishing for any reason whatsoever. "Why not come out and admit men will do anything to get out of helping with household chores?"

Which was a reminder that housecleaning time is just around the stepladder. A victim with a keen nose and a lively imagination can smell it and feel it now—the cleaning solutions, the furniture polish and the little dry crumbs of wallpaper cleaner beneath his bare feet.

He can pre-taste the indifferent meals, going from bad to worse as housecleaning becomes more involved until he is tempted to ask the restaurant to pack a lunch for him to take home for supper.

He can anticipate what it will feel like to throw himself down heavily after a hard day at work where the overstuffed davenport stood the day before—and land on the flat of his back on a rackful of potted plants.

He knows how it will be to squirm and toss half the night because his bed has been moved from its proper location to some unnatural place in another part of the bedroom.

He will be looking for his slippers and socks until Memorial Day. His favorite neckties will be missing and he will fear the worst—the incinerator.

Even the boxes of breakfast food will be moved before the latest annual tizzy of neatness has burned itself out in the acrid stench of fresh paint.

He will be lucky if the housecleaners, of whom he is proud to thhink of himself as not being one, do not move the whole house 90 degrees on its foundation so he will be facing south instead of east while he eats breakfast.

Small wonder some men think of going fishing while this is happening; that others remember urgent out-of-town business trips; that others are detained for long periods of time at the office.

There is no single strain on civilization which brings it closer to the breaking point than this relic of horse-and-buggy days when houses were kept with brooms and mops; when heating systems consisted of base burners that spewed out fly ash; when the only way to tidy up a house after a hard winter was to turn the thing inside out and drive its denizens daffy with chaos, queer smells and janitorial fumadiddle.

Unfortunately, the females of the species are slow learners. They make some progress but not much. In one lifetime their progression from the dark ages into the era of light and atomic energy is imperceptible. They still clean house in the spring like their great-great-grandmothers.

It's almost housecleaning time again men. If you are married to any female or in a position to be hornswoggled by any female born before the Coolidge administration, you're in for it.

A fellow can go fishing but not 24 hours a day. He can be detained at the office but not all night. He can make a trip out of town but not indefinitely.

Best solution: Volunteer to clean the ceiling of the living room. Develop a lame shoulder and bet off for fear of permanent injury. You won't have to lie much to make it seem true.

Hambung Boom

TOKYO (AP) — Peiping radio says that Hamhung in Communist-ruled northeast Korea has come back to life during the armistice after having 97 per cent wrecked by Allied plans during the war.

A recent broadcast said the revived coast city now has 45,000 wooden and brick buildings, a university, five technical schools, nine "middle" schools, 12 primary schools, a school for Chinese Nationals, 78 "state-owned stores," three movie houses and one legitimate theater.

Allied forces pulled back through Hamhung to Wonsam, then withdrew in ships on Christmas, 1950, after encountering overwhelming numbers of Chinese.

Political Ineptness GOP Handicap

By Raymond Moley

Clarence Budington Kelland, who divides his time between writing adventure stories and practicing the fine art of politics has offered the Eisenhower administration some worthwhile advice. It takes the form of a sharp warning published in the American Magazine and the United States News.

He begins by saying flatly that if the congressional elections were held today the Democrats would probably win back control of both Houses. For what my opinion may be worth I feel even more certain of that result than does Kelland. I feel also that the following sentences from his article make much sense:

"The unhappy fact is that the rank and file of party workers (meaning Republicans) are discontented and disgruntled. The state of mind commences at the higher levels and permeates the body. This does not confine itself to actual party workers — to what we may call politicans large and small — but to butchers and bankers and candlestick makers who have been loyal for long, lean years to the Republican party . . . this very considerable army is commencing to believe that the administration is not Republican enough; that Mr. Eisenhower and his political family are not concerned sufficiently with the success of the Republican party as such and are not working diligently in its interests."

THE DISCONTENT that Kelland notes is, of course, in part due to the failure of the administration and the Civil Service Commission to make room for more Republicans in federal jobs. The situation in that respect is most serious, but it would be unfair to those who are complaining to ascribe their unhappiness entirely to the scarcity of rewarding patronage.

There is a feeling that the actions and statements of the President and some of his subordinates have weakened the Republican case before the country.

After all, the Republican workers described by Kelland must go into the heat of a fierce political battle this year — a battle in which their opposition will be experienced, ruthless and, what is more, hungry for a return of power.

In that battle it will be a handicap to Republicans to have that opposition able to say that in many of the crucial issues of the past year the President and his administration have been against rather than for a majority of their party.

-:-

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT whose mastery of practical politics is conceded by all, used to have a rule which he always kept before him. It was to imagine at all times what the opposition might make of what he did or said, what interpretation his political enemies might place upon his ideas and actions, and what arguments against him might be derived therefrom.

It might be well for Republicans to consider what could be said against them this fall.

There are several things that might be said — things that can be effective in swaying voters however unfair they may be.

For example, it might be said, and it probably will be said, that on a number of very important issues the President has been arrayed against his own party.

On the Bricker amendment the final vote indicated that on the President's side was not a majority of his party not even the conservative wing of the Democratic party.

HIS VICTORY was due to the Lehmans, the Magnusons, the Murrays and the Morses. The Republicans who followed him were almost purely the sectional minority of his party.

On taxes in the 1953 session his real fights were against his own party. His offside comments have generally been critical of members of his own part. Finally there was his plea for a be-kind-to-Democrats policy.

There are bright spots in the record to be sure. But as Kelland says, they have not been and are not now being exploited or dramatized.

All in all, the impression can be easily be created that Eisenhower is a non-partisan President. But as Kelland puts it, there can no more be a non-partisan president than there can be a non-sectarian pope.

Kelland's structures might well be pondered by the President's personal staff. For unless they amend their methods it will be difficult to revive once more the spirit of the Great Crusade of 1952.

Adventures in Verbology

By MARK DANA

A learned scholar, one Dr. Hyman Stoc, has come out with an essay intended to be of tremendous help to mankind which explains at least to his own satisfaction how some American words originated.

He offers no suggestions on how we can abolish half the words in the dictionary, never used, or how to persuade some of our acquaintances from using three words instead of one (or talking at 60 miles an hour instead of politely drawling at 10. Perhaps it was a mistake to originate any words whatever. Animals seem to get along first rate with just sounds; even the giraffe, wholly mute, no doubt haughtily looks down on humans who often are gabby, indeed.

Dr. Stock's treatise on etymology, or the science of words, reminds that asparagus is called sparrow-grass in some regions, due to a corruption of sounds; that a crawfish is called that because it crawls; that cutlet is just a cut of meat (and merits its diminuitive suffix in these high-price days); that sideburns simply turned the tables on "burnsides" which got their own name from Gen. Burnside's facial spinach; that parboil once was part-boil, and still means to boil partly.

It is nice to be educated, and to be able to figure out such esoteric nuances of phrasal evolution thus convincingly. As usage makes a langugage, we can expect dictionaries, one or two editions hence, to list "dollar" as the definition of "buck," and to find the verb "send" explained as "to delight, to fascinate, to exhilarate," as hot music enthusiasts now use it.

With all our goodly supply, we do need a few new words, of course. Diplomats could use one which sounds like "no" but implies a friend-keeping "Maybe," and the word "love" has been kicked around so casually that a substitute which tells the story for those who mean it yet is safely non-committal if not accentus thus right might come in handy at times.

"The Man Who Never Was" is to be made into a movie, with George Spelvin in the title role?

Thoughts on Lent

This is not the sermon department, but this column, usually dedicated to lighter things, happens to believe that a newspaper writer who can let the Lenten Season enter without a column dedicated to it is a poor judge of important events. In this era when man goes to his physician so often for a physical check it seems to us that the church's emphasis on the importance of a spiritual checkup can't be faulted or ignored.

The air is jammed with appeals emphasizing the importance of checking on your heart, your lungs, your liver and your kidneys. The Lenten Season's emphasis on the soul strikes us as more important. Every hour on the hour man gets a call to co-operate in new drives for better physical health.

Lent's call for a drive for spiritual health is no minor matter. It is the condition of a man's spirit that puts the world in the terrible shape it is in today. No matter how defective his heart, lungs and kidneys may be, they could never cause so much global distress.

We would like to tune into some station and hear the appeal "Millions of people are unknowingly suffering from afflictions of the soul. You could be one of the sufferers from this disastrous malady without realizing it. Consult your church and your conscience before it is too late."

-:-

Lent is a time for man to remind himself that what the stethescope and the prescription blank can do for bodily health the altar and the conscience can do for his spiritual health. No pill from a doctor can do as much lasting good as the Ten Commandments twice a day and a thought from the Sermon on the Mount before and after eating. The sickness destroying the world can find a cure only in the Old and New Testaments. Like Christmas, Lent is a holiest season of the Christian year; its spiritual beauty is not lost on any faith.

"Dust thou art and to dust thou shalt return" is the keynote of Lent and in those words are a gripping reminder of true values capable of taking the strut out of any man and cutting Mr. Self Importance, Mr. Swagger and Mr. and Mrs. VIP down to midget size. It can take the chestiness and arrogance out of the human system in any fair trial. It can produce charity, patience, restraint and tolerance in a day of excesses, soft living and luxury served a la king.

From Lent Easter calls for sacrifice, a giving up of things. The trouble is that this is an era when many people (me, too!) think they are going all out for sacrifice when they lay up the big car, skip a cocktail party and avoid a third helping of hors d'oeuvres.

Never in history have so many had it so good for so long and accepted it with so little appreciation. In the Ash Wednesday-to-Easter season the realization of this sinks away down deep, unless you have spiritual arthritis, hardening of the soul and a deterioration in your sense of proportion.

We didn't know until we read Allen Nevins' book on Henry Ford that the Cadillac, Olds, Packard and a dozen other cars were in production before Henry's machine. Ford wanted to make cars as expensive as the others before he decided on a car for the masses. In 1916, a Ford runabout sold for $345 and the company made $100 on each machine!!!

Orson Bean, a lad just out of college, and now in "Almanac," is mighty funny and has a refreshingly new line.

Bucyrus Firemen Seek Salary Hikes And Shorter Hours

BUCYRUS — Members of the Bucyrus fire department have filed a petition with city Council, seeking a $25 a month salary boost, Council President Robert E. Caldwell announced here today. The petition has been referred to Council's finance committee.

The firemen's petition also asked consideration of a short work week. Fire Chief Ralph Mead said firemen now are on duty 72 hours a week and that some Ohio cities have shortened the work week. The Ohio Legislature rejected a bill at the last session to reduce the work week but the shorter work week may become mandatory in the future, Chief Mead said. Reduction of the work week from 72 hours to 56 would necessitate the hiring of two additional firemen, according to Chief Mader.

Starting pay for regular firemen is $255 a month with the rate boosted to $270 after 90 days service and $285 after a year's service Department lieutenants receive $302 a month and extra firemen are paid $285. Regular firemen also get a $50 annual uniform allowance. The monthly salary of Chief Mead is $355. He is not asking a raise because his salary was boosted in Januray.

Weddings

In a closed church ceremony Saturday, Feb. 20, in Salem Evangelical United Brethren Church, Miss Barbara Ruth Soulier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Soulier of 390 E. Farming St., became the bride of Charles W. Shelton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Shelton of Caledonia. The ceremony was read at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon by the pastor, Rev. L. Harrison Ludwig, and only the immediate families attended.

The bride chose for her wedding a light blue suit with which she combined black accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of pink roses and white carnations. Her attendant was her sister, Miss Patricia Soulier, who wore a light pink suit with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Howard Shelton of Marion served as best man for his brother.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Soulier of 365 N. Work on Religious Education Planned By Marion Church

In Marion for a week of consultation with Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church groups on work in religious education is Miss Johanna Stroetker, field worker of the denomination's Board of Christian Education. Her headquarters is at Philadelphia, Pa. A general meeting is set for 7:30 tonight.

With individual congregations she meets with those interested in the education program of the church, and her schedule here includes meetings with teachers of every department. Demonstration classes are being set up, and conferences with parents and teachers are being arranged in every department of the church's Children's Division. On Sunday morning, the guest worker will give the message at the worship hour and she will meet with the Youth Fellowship in the afternoon.

An ordained minister of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, she is a graduate of Elmhurst College in Illinois and of Eden Theological Seminary at Webster Groves, Mo., where she received her bachelor of divinity degree.

Her closing meeting with the congregation will be on Wednesday night in connection with the midweek service. The pastor, Rev. L. H. Ludwig, will present the devotional theme from the subject, "A New Convert," after which Miss Stroetker will give the Congregation a report and suggestions for the improvement of the program of Christian educatioan.

Scheduled for tomorrow at 2 p. m. is a meeting with parents and teachers of Primary children, with evaluation and demonstration. On Monday at 1:30 p.m., there will be a meeting with parents and teachers of Kindergarten pupils, and at 7, Junior Division. Tuesday's setup is for Nursery parents, teachers and children at 2 p.m., and adult teachers, class presidents, and class representatives at 7:30. Miss Stroetker will consult with individuals on Church School materials, administration, methods of teaching, of other problems if arrangements are made with the pastor.

Times Change

By George Sokolsky

SOKOLSKY

It was never intended that the Constitution of the United States should be a static document, hopelessly rigid against the future

When the Constitution was adopted, the United States consisted of 13 former British colonies on the Eastern seaboard, today it is the basic law of 48 states from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from Canada to Mexico When the Constitution was adopted, the population of the United States was about 3,000 000 persons, today the population has grown to 160,000,000

It would be belaboring a point to compare the numerous contrasts between 1789 and 1954 not the least of which is our deep involvement in the affairs of Europe and Asia

• •

THOMAS JEFFERSON, who always feared the power of government, wrote

'It would reduce the whole instrument to a single phrase—that of instituting a Congress with power to do whatever would be for the good of the United States, and, as they would be the sole judges of the good or evil, it would be also a power to do whatever evil they pleased"

In Washington's Farewell Address this appears.

"It is important, likewise, that the habits of thinking in a free country should inspire caution in those intrusted with its administration to confine themselves within their respective constitutional spheres, avoiding in the exercise of the powers of one department to encroach upon another The spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all the departments in one, and thus to create whatever the form of government, a real despotism"

Then Washington said

'If in the opinion of the people the distribution or modification of the constitutional powers be in any particular wrong let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designates

IN A WORD, the Constitution must ever be a living document, adjusted by judicial interpretation or amended in conformity to the will of the people

The reactionaries who now insist that nothing should be done about the Constitution either overlook, or desire the people to disregard the provision within the Constitution itself for amendment

"The Congress, whenever two thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution or on the application of the legislatures of two thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments which in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three fourths of the several States or by conventions in three fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress

• •

ONE IS OFTEN startled at the extremist statements on this subject by those who have opposed the Bricker amendment or any substitute for it Let us disregard altogether the virtues if any of the proposed amendments but we cannot ignore some of the arguments employed against them, for they often lead to confusions of dangerous magnitude This we must bear in mind, is a government of the people of the various States, not a government by an elite

For instance, Joseph O Meara dean of the Law School of the University of Notre Dame, who succeeded the brilliant Dean Clarence Manion said

'Those who are working so hard for the adoption of the Bricker amendment for the most part at any rate, are people who want to secede from the world

Already the Constitution has been amended 22 times and the United States has not been withdrawn from the world

Why should a clarifying amendment governing the relations of the executive and the legislative branches of the government withdraw this country from the world?

THE CONFUSION of thought in the above quoted paragraph is startling because it comes from a lawyer who must know that it would be impossible to withdraw the United States from the world at an historical moment when this country is actually engaged in staving off a war with a potent enemy The enemy would reject withdrawal

Erwin N Griswold, Dean of the Harvard Law School gives a more reactionary reason for opposition to these amendments He says

'The national safeguards against mistakes in foreign policy should remain where they were placed in 1789'

Why was not everything left where it was in 1789 — but everything? Maybe Dean Griswold is right It would have been better that way But the world does move

Tight Lipped

By Victor Riesel

RIESEL

While hundreds of federal intelligence agents blanket Washington, New York, Chicago, and Puerto Rico from San Juan to El Junque's hillsides, two men walk freely about New York City, although they know considerably more than the rest of the U S about the mad Puerto Rican Nationalist party and its leader, Don Pedro Albizu Campos

One of these carefree characters a former congressman himself, is Vito Marcantonio, attorney for the Communist party. Out of sheer sympathy for his bullet - ridden ex-colleagues in the House, Marcantonio should tell what he knew of wild man Campos, with whom he posed in friendly pictures not too long after the Nationalists openly dedicated themselves to bullets instead of ballots

To see that picture, one of the wounded congressmen need only telephone the Congressional Library for the August 1938 edition of a sovieteering thing called "Equal Justice" Therein is photographic evidence of the fraternity between Campos and Marcantonio.

• •

THERE IS ANOTHER man who knows even more than Vito That man is a former intimate of Stalin, a former organizer of the Soviets network on several continents, a former intimate of espionage agents. His name is Earl Browder. It was Browder who nursed the lunatic fringe boss Albizu Campos, around New York. The government knows that Campos and Browder were followed by platoons of FBI agents

What weird nonsense keeps us from pressuring Browder into talking? Aren't an attempted assassination of a U S president an attempt to subvert Puerto Rican GIs, and the shooting of five members of the House of Representatives enough?

Browder moved Campos and the Nationalists right into the U S Soviet apparat That's on the record The Communists defended the Nationalists when they were charged with 'opposing the authority of the U S by force in citing rebellion against the U S government and recruiting soldiers in Puerto Rico to serve in armed hostilities against the U S' That was in 1936 1937. We waited 17 years Why? Innocent men died at the hands of this plot Why did we wait?

Albizu Campos and the Nationalists worked closely with the U S Communists International Labor Defense Campos himself was put on the ILD's national board by Browder and company

• •

MASS MEETINGS were run and advertised in Moscow's American herring wrapper, the Daily Worker (see the June 15, 1937 edition page four), at which Albizu Campos friends spoke One of those sessions was held right in Washington on June 19 20 21 1937, 'at which plans for the coming year will be mapped' it said in the American version of Pravda

The pro-Communists even put Albizu Campos the assassination specialist in their inner councils As late as 1943 Albizu Campos was a member of the National Committee of the International Labor Defense Along with guess who? Practically the entire leadership of the communist line unions

With Albizu Campos on the board was Reid Robinson, a leader of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union, who right now is working hard to keep his hand on vital copper mining in Butte Mont

There was also Joe Selly head of the American Communications Association which still sits astride our trans-Atlantic cable communications over which the Army the Navy and other services keep contact with each other

• •

THERE WAS Ben Gold, now on trial in Federal Court on charges of having perjured himself when he filed a non-Communist affidavit under Taft - Hartley regulations And, of course toting that bale of propaganda too, was ol man Paul Robeson

The International Labor Defense is gone, but the Nationalists linger on right through their own gun smoke

The record of Albizu Campos collaboration with the American Communist apparatus is longer than a Soviet confession

Point is that it is still operating—and that a friendly Latin American government recently told our own intelligence services that Soviet agents working out of their Guatemalan base are in Puerto Rico attempting to organize new terror bands of Nationalists among the Puerto Rican ex-GIs recently returned from Korea

The commies aren't having much luck They will always find a few nuts who can shoot as wildly as those who invaded the House Let's call up Earl Browder and Vito Marcantonio Time they talked

Exciting Future

By Ed Creagh

WASHINGTON

Put me down as a coward if you like, but I'm not sure the brave new world of tomorrow is the world for me

Like millions of other people I can't resist those science stories—some fiction, some 'scientific' speculation — about what's ahead for mankind You know — rocket ships blasting off to Mars strange creatures from outer space dropping in among us.

Now this makes fine "escape' reading, as some of my higher browed friends tell me with a sniff when they catch me with a paperback hidden behind a 'serious' book Trouble is, I have an uneasy hunch that the authors of these interplanetary thrillers aren't kidding.

THEY WERE, if you remember the boys who were writing confidently of the atom bomb in the days when many a "real' scientist was scoffing at the very idea They have in fact a disturbing record of being right in their forecasts

All I know is that if their picture of our future is anywhere near accurate this 20th century world of the hydrogen bomb, the Communist menace and the Puerto Rican terrorist with the blazing gun is going to seem a warm and cozy place by comparison.

If you care for an example, look at 'The Orneks and the Gogos by Charles E Fritch in the current issue of "Cosmos Science Fiction' Space ship lands on Mars crew finds the place occupied by—pigs In less time that it takes to say "pseudo scientific" our brave human adventurers find themselves tossed into pens and the pigs are about to have people chops for suppers.

THIS IS MILD whimsical stuff compared with much science fiction More often, the creatures from outer space are tough scaly creatures armed with devastating ray-guns . . . or horrible shapeless blobs that assume any form—your wife's, for example—at will

Worse still in this nightmare world of tomorrow, odd changes occur in those stay-at-home earthlings who don't go rocketing through space They learn to read minds They form themselves — as in Theodore Sturgeon's grotesque classic, 'More Than Human — into unholy several-people in-one combinations with a mongoloid idiot for a brain and, for arms and legs, two colored girls who go whisking magically through space wearing nothing but impish expressions.

MAYBE I'M BORROWING trouble Maybe none of us will live to see this nerve-shattering tomorrow But it's just as well to be prepared The time may be fast approaching when we will need (A)
